

Businessmen To Support Parking Authority

MEMBERS OF the Stroudsburg Businessmen's Assn. will go before Borough Council en masse to support a recommendation by engineers for the Stroudsburg Parking Authority for construction of a municipally-operated parking lot in the downtown business section. Although the association took no formal action at its dinner meeting last night at the Penn-Stroud Hotel, the consensus was that as many members as possible should attend the Council session at which the engineer's report—approved by the authority—is presented.

Dr. Samuel F. Sullivan, parking authority chairman, read the report during the meeting and said a meeting of the authority will be called in the near future to approve it—a necessary formality before Council takes action upon it.

The report recommended that the authority acquire land for the lot in the business area and that it be as near Sixth and Main Sts. as feasible, terminating at intersection of the "center of parking demand."

Dr. Sullivan pointed out that Council has shown in the past that it feels the businessmen should suggest a method for financing the project.

He said the authority is handicapped by the fact that it has no funds with which to secure an option on the site recommended by the report.

Charles Marsh, association president, named John Wilson, Jack Kerlin, Bert George and Ralph Ellenberger to the Christmas lighting committee.

Named to the nominating committee were Charles Edmondson, Herman Lax and Nathan Smith. They will present a slate of officers for election at the next meeting. New officers will be installed at the November meeting.

Marsh read to the members a letter from Borough Manager Harold E. Snyder which reported merchants are sweeping refuse into the streets after the borough street sweeper cleans them each morning.

Marsh said Snyder told him additional refuse cans will be installed in the business district to encourage merchants to collect their refuse and place it in the containers.

In answer to a complaint from one member that the cans are not emptied regularly, Marsh said he consulted with Snyder on the matter.

Marsh reported that seven merchants have pledged or made donations to the industrial development fund of Monroe County Industries, Inc., and said "We're quite certain of two more."

Marsh said that the amount of the individual contribution is "not nearly as important as building our community."

He also revealed that the association has a budget of $2,104 for the remainder of the year, but needs an additional $803 unless some budget items are trimmed.

The budget committee was instructed to check the possibility of additional solicitation to cover the deficit. It will report at the next meeting.

One-Hour Interview

MOSCOW, Sept. 9 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt had a one-hour interview today with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko at the Foreign Ministry. She declined to give newsmen details of their talk.

Judge Okays Plan By Attorneys

DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 9 (AP)—Federal Judge William H. Atwell today approved a plan drawn by Negro attorneys which would admit Negro students to Dallas public schools on the same terms and conditions as whites.

The order is effective with the beginning of the mid-winter school term, Feb. 3, 1958.

Andrew J. Thuss, attorney for the Dallas School Board, said he had a "strong conviction the order was not consistent with the mandate of the U. S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals" and announced he would appeal the order to the Circuit Court.

Judge Atwell, who twice before had granted the Dallas School Board delays in carrying out integration only to be overruled by the Circuit Court, rejected an integration plan submitted by Thuss because it did not set a definite time to begin integration.

President

Dr. Edwin L. Rippey, president of the school board, told newsmen before the board integrated its schools "we must find out our relations with the state law. We can not afford to lose funds."

He referred to a new Texas law that denies certain state funds to districts that integrate without holding a local option election. School officials estimate they would lose slightly more than a million dollars this year if they integrated without first holding an election.

Rippey also said that the state law provides fines for officials and loss of accreditation for schools.

Judge Atwell opened today's session by reading a mandate from the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans, dated July 23, 1957. He said he had received it only today.

Russian Explosion

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission reported today that Russia exploded a nuclear weapon of "moderate intensity" within the last two days.

EXPLAINS NEW LAW—Dist. Atty. Detlef Hansen (center) explained a new law covering shoplifting which was passed by the recent session of the Legislature at a meeting of the Stroudsburg Businessmen's Assn. last night at the Penn-Stroud Hotel. Shown with him are Jack Kerlin (left) who introduced the speaker and Charles Marsh, association president.

Hansen Explains White, Negro Shoplifting Laws First Graders Attend School

AMENDMENTS to two existing laws on shoplifting, passed by the recent session of the State Legislature, will not be a "panacea for any of you," Dist. Atty. Detlef Hansen told a dinner meeting of the Stroudsburg Businessmen's Assn. last night in the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

The amendments provide a fine of $25 to $50 and five to 10 days in jail for a summary conviction of shoplifting and stiffer sentences, up to $2,000 fine and five years or both in cases where a felony conviction is obtained.

Hansen read House Bill 1277, on which the new law was based, and said that up to now no lawyers that he knows have received copies of the legislation as finally enacted.

He emphasized that his interpretation of the law was based on the House Bill.

The penalties listed are for "willfully concealing" unpurchased goods "on the premises or outside of the premises" of a store.

Hansen pointed out that the law provides a merchant who is convinced that a person is stealing from him has the right to detain such person "in a reasonable manner and for a reasonable length of time," but recommended that merchants call a police officer, give him the facts and ask the officer to sign the charges.

The district attorney pointed out that the word "reasonable" in the law is subject to a wide variety of interpretation.

The law also provides, he said, that a merchant or employee is "not criminally or civilly liable for false arrest or detention" and at the same time warned of the danger in a literal interpretation of that section of the law.

He said that if the case should be thrown out of court and the signer of the complaint is a police officer, there can be no liability on the part of the merchant or his employees.

U. S. Hurls Warning At Russia, Syria

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (AP)—The United States warned Russia and pro-Soviet Syria today not to miscalculate American military power or "misinterpret our determination" to block communism in the Middle East.

The State Department's No. 3 official, Deputy Undersecretary Robert Murphy, voiced the warning in a speech at the annual conference of U. S. mayors. He said "It is entirely possible" that the American government's readiness to negotiate an international disarmament agreement "has been misinterpreted in some quarters."

Murphy called attention to big Soviet arms shipments to Syria, Egypt, and Yemen, as well as arrival of "substantial numbers" of Russian technicians in the area. These have been accompanied, he noted, by "a series of Soviet boasts" about advances in intercontinental missiles, naval and air power.

Clair Aim

In words clearly aimed at Kremlin rulers, Murphy declared: "It would be unwise to underestimate the industrial and military power of our country, and to misinterpret our determination."

The State Department diplomat, one of Secretary Dulles' key advisers, denounced Moscow's policy of offering weapons "at bargain prices to certain countries with military ambitions." He did not identify these countries but said they "run the grave risk of absorption" and loss of their independence to Russia.

Murphy spoke out amid these other developments:

1. Big American Air Force Globemaster and flying boxcar planes unloaded 106 millimeter recoilless rifles at the Jordanian capital of Amman to bolster King Hussein's government against any threat from Syria.

2. The State Department in Washington branded as "false" Egyptian President Fawzi's remark that the stern American attitude toward Syria is aimed at splitting the Arab countries and appeasing Israel.

Murphy's speech, it was learned, reflected top-level State Department worry over the possibility that Russia and Syria were "misreading" American willingness to fight, if necessary, to check further Red expansion. The deputy undersecretary's blunt words were aimed, officials said, at preventing any Kremlin miscalculation which might plunge the Middle East into war.

The remarks were in line with Secretary Dulles' views that the Korean conflict and other wars were the result of such basic misjudgments of the free world's readiness to fight.

Rain Felt In East

By The Associated Press

THE nation's weather was generally fair in the West Monday, but the East had two extensive areas of rain.

A storm which whirled into northern Florida Sunday from the Gulf of Mexico, spread rain over much of the Southeast and into the Ohio Valley and Middle Atlantic States.

Pensacola, Fla., and Macon, Ga. had more than an inch of rain. Another spate of showers and thunderstorms formed along a cold air front from the Central Plains to the Great Lakes region.

Temperatures were generally in the 60s and 70s in the area east of the Rockies, but in the 80s in some sunny parts of the South.

There was 100-degree weather in the Southwest, including central valley areas of Southern California. Showers were on the nighttime menu for mountainous parts of Nevada and California, and for New Mexico.

Scattered frosts were likely in higher parts of the Rockies and New England.

District Judge Decides Action Against Faubus

Stassen Puts Next Move Up To Reds

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP)—An optimistic Harold E. Stassen reported to Secretary of State Dulles today on the West's vain 5½ month effort to reach a disarmament agreement with Russia.

"The day will come when we reach agreement," Stassen predicted to reporters who met him at National Airport upon his return from London, the site of the disarmament talks.

He said the next move must be made by the Russians. And he added:

"If they would agree to stop the production of fissionable materials for weapons uses, then I believe we could move on to a first step agreement. This was the major point of disagreement."

"Remember that neither side stepped back in the London talks. It is not that I am optimistic, but that I am realistic. The world knows that a war would be a great loss."

Stassen rejected a reporter's suggestion that only a summit conference, bringing together President Eisenhower, Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and the heads of the British and French states, could break the deadlock reached at the London meeting of the U. N. Disarmament subcommittee.

Committee

"No, the question goes now to the full U. N. Disarmament Committee in New York," Stassen replied. "That is the agreement."

But he did not rule out a suggestion that a U. N. address by Eisenhower might improve disarmament prospects. He recalled Eisenhower's 1953 U. N. speech, which led to creation of a world atoms-for-peace agency, and said he believes there is very strong U. N. support for the U. S.-British-French - Canadian disarmament proposal made Aug. 29 at London.

Stassen brushed aside as "unfounded" Soviet charges that aggressive American demands sabotaged the five-nation London talks.

"We negotiated seriously, patiently and persistently on this very complicated subject," Stassen said. "I do believe that in the five long months we aided peace, improved the prospects of a durable peace."

Stassen was asked also about his personal plans. A reporter mentioned reports that he has been considering seeking the Republican nomination for governor in Pennsylvania.

"As you know, I declared a complete moratorium on politics during these disarmament negotiations," Stassen said with a smile.

Flu Shots For Troops

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP)—The military services today announced compulsory vaccination of all men and women in uniform against Asian flu will begin this month.

All service personnel at home and abroad will get the first shots by the end of October. The second vaccinations will follow later, the services said in separate announcements.

The Navy started flu vaccinations late last month when men starting into the Atlantic for NATO exercises were given their first shots.

The Air Force said its first vaccine was shipped to Europe and Newfoundland.

The Army said its initial distribution of vaccine is now under way and by the middle of October most of its unvaccinated men will have been vaccinated.

MUNICH, Germany, Sept. 9 (AP)—King Mohammed Zahir Shah of Afghanistan arrived by plane today for a visit described as private and of unspecified duration.

'Stand Up And Be Counted' Industry Fund Reaches $8,451

DIVISION chairman of the industrial development drive of Monroe County Industries, Inc., were urged yesterday to redouble their efforts in an attempt to reach the $15,000 goal of the campaign by next Monday.

J. Horace Strunk, executive secretary of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce, said division chairmen have been especially invited to attend next Monday's membership luncheon of the chamber at the Patterson-Kelley Co. picnic grounds in East Stroudsburg.

Request

"It would be particularly appropriate if each of these division chairmen could report completely and concisely that he has accomplished his share of the burden of this campaign at our first membership meeting," Strunk said.

A member of the board of directors of the chamber, parent organization of the industrial group, pointed out yesterday that if one-half of the paid-up members contributed $100 each the goal would easily be met.

Yesterday's contributions totaled $225, bringing the total in pledges and cash to $8,451. The latest contributions were $100 each from Waring Enterprises, Inc., and Al Besecker, Besecker's Diner, and $25 from Ed Sullivan, Singer Sewing Machine Co.

White Crowd Beats Negro Minister

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 9 (AP)—A Negro minister was beaten today in an outbreak of mob violence set off by his attempt to enter Negro students at all-white Phillips High School.

The Rev. F. L. Shuttlesworth, 35, was knocked down several times and threatened with death by members of a white group which had gathered outside the downtown school.

Shuttlesworth's daughter, Ruby Fredericka, 12, suffered a bruised ankle when a car door was slammed against it.

Three white men were arrested by police who battled a dozen or more men until the minister was able to break away and escape.

Two hours after the incident, a car containing four Negro men drove past the block-square Phillips building and threw rocks into a window. No one was hurt. The Negroes escaped.

Police

Police Commissioner Robert E. Lindbergh ordered Birmingham police to prevent persons "who have no lawful reason to be at the schools" from entering school grounds. This would include Negroes who have not been registered.

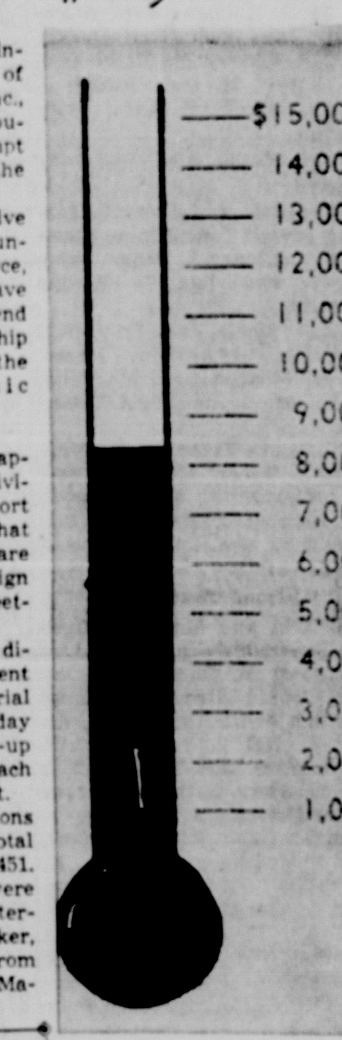

Police also said the all-white Woodlawn High School, in the eastern section, had been notified by telegram that an attempt to enroll Negroes would be made tomorrow.

Shuttlesworth said, after Lindbergh's order, that he would try to enroll the Negroes at Phillips again tomorrow, "whether they kill us or not."

A petition to register eight Negroes at three city schools, including Phillips, is pending. Today's was the first physical effort by Negroes this year to enter Alabama schools. Several Negroes tried unsuccessfully to enroll at a Montgomery elementary in 1955.

HOLLIDAYSBURG, Sept. 9 (AP)—Fifty-eight persons here evacuated safely tonight when fire broke out in the Presbyterian Home here.

Proceedings Expected To Begin Today

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 9 (AP)—U. S. District Judge Ronald N. Davies today ordered injunction proceedings against Gov. Orval Faubus at the climax of a day which saw the first outburst of violence in the Arkansas integration process.

In Washington, a Justice Department spokesman said the department would "comply as soon as possible," possibly tomorrow.

Davies' directive also specified that Maj. Gen. Sherman T. Clinger, head of the Arkansas National Guard, and Lt. Col. Marion E. Johnson also be named as defendants. Johnson commands the troops which surround Central High School and have forcibly prevented nine Negro students from attending classes.

Petition

Davies' order asked federal attorneys to file a petition for an injunction to prevent interference with court-ordered integration in Little Rock. A judge cannot draw up a petition but may impose an injunction once the petition is presented.

At neighboring North Little Rock, a separate city not involved in the judge's order, white students shopped and jostled six Negroes trying to enter the previously all-white high school.

The North Little Rock School Board meantime announced it was standing firm on its intention to postpone integration indefinitely.

The governor at a press conference tonight parried numerous questions about the effect of the injunctive proceedings.

"I have not yet received official notice and it will be a very important legal question," Faubus said. "I'd like to see the official notice to see just what it involves."

Asked whether federal marshals would be allowed through the gates of the mansion guarded by National Guardsmen to serve a summons, Faubus said the guards could forcibly prevent entry of any unauthorized person.

Faubus said he had been advised of a plot to assassinate him. The plot originated in a northern city, he said. The purported city was not disclosed.

"Last night some friends of ours got a call from a northern city and said... a certain group was taking off for the purpose of bumping me off," the governor said.

Immediately

Davies' order told the attorneys to bring a petition immediately against Faubus, who has kept armed National Guardsmen at Central High School for a week to prevent Negroes from attending the school.

The order was directed to U. S. Atty. Gen. Brownell and U. S. Atty. Osro Cobb of Little Rock.

In Washington, a spokesman for the Justice Department said the department would "comply as soon as possible," possibly tomorrow. He said the federal government would petition for an injunction through Cobb, but the spokesman added that he was not certain the exact form the petition would take.

Davies three times before had ordered the Little Rock school board to proceed with its plan of limited, gradual integration.

Today his brief order said that the court had received a report from the U. S. attorney that Negro students were not being permitted to attend Little Rock Central High in accordance with the integration plan which had been approved by another district judge and by a U. S. Appeals Court.

He directed the attorney general and the district attorney to intervene in the suit which resulted in approval of the integration proposal.

Coming Home

Teenager Considers Lesson From Europe

EDITOR'S NOTE—David B. Ottaway, son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Ottaway, Endicott, N. Y., and Buck Hill Falls, is currently on tour of Europe. He has a report of special interest to high school and college students. Ottaway will enter Harvard this month. This is the 22nd chapter in the European series.

By David Ottaway
PARIS, France — And now you and I may wonder what such an experience to a teenage boy can possibly mean.

Of course, it will mean more to me as time gives it perspective and permits contrasts and comparisons to be made. But even now certain experiences and emotions seem significant. Primarily I have been introduced to a new life by people, not as different in thought as in past history and present circumstances.

For all the hate or mistrust that may or at least be said to exist between Americans and Europeans, I feel that once we give each other a chance and a meeting half way, there exists a warmth for common humanity that can bind us together if we will permit.

Judgment
I make this judgment from my relationship with some four or five Europeans. Perhaps it is a generalization from the specific. But do we not all feel this to be possible?

I have seen some Americans not willing to give an inch and ready to take a mile. This, I think, is why we are disliked.

We are generally noisy and demanding, the latter because our way of life is so often different, and we are unwilling to live theirs even though it may be for a few weeks time.

You all have probably read or heard this same argument but to witness and feel this rift is something different, unique in its own and very real.

Our group has not been the sort that goes over expressly to create better understanding, and I don't think it has to be so in order to help bridge this gap.

We were lucky to stay in Interlaken one month, and to have the opportunity to really meet people.

Probably it is because Americans don't usually stop long enough in any one place that we appear so badly. Certainly it is the American tourist that has the greatest power to help create understanding in a world of mistrust.

Then, too, we are not all to blame. Many of the people tourists come in contact with are aggravating because they are out for your last penny.

Usually it is painfully true that thanks comes not from the heart but from the pocket. So we are not all to blame for our reputation.

I do feel that we have done something to present ourselves decently and to help in the current campaign to establish a different American front.

Fighting
Besides this, I have learned by being away, what ought to be appreciated at home. There is to Americans a well being that we have always had and that Europeans are now fighting for.

Germany is by far the hardest fighting nation in this direction. All Europe has passed directly through two World Wars and felt the harsh consequences, while ours has not been quite so damaging.

As we traveled I saw much more clearly what these people have undergone and why they presently feel as they do.

These, then, are some of my first impressions. As I sit writing on the Queen Elizabeth less than 24 hours from the New York skyline, I think I too will soon know why the Statue of Liberty means so much to the returning traveler.

Oppose Haircuts
—OTTAWA, Sept. 9 (AP)—Steve and Andy Hurst, Oxford University students, sailed for home in England with a long-haired look after a two-month tour of Canada. The two brothers said they considered the usual Canadian rate of $1 for a haircut exorbitant.

Jerusalem, Israel Sector
Sept. 9 (AP)—The Jerusalem Post today reported this sequel to a charge by Pravda that the port of Eilat has been turned into a U.S. military base:

The Israeli Foreign Ministry invited Soviet Ambassador Alexander N. Abramov to visit the Aqaba gulf town and see for himself.

Abramov declined.

Plenty Of Waste
MEXICO CITY, Sept. 9 (AP)—The National Industrial Productivity Council says the annual waste in Mexican manufacturing amounts to roughly the same as the government's budget. It estimates that waste in time, materials and the use of machinery causes a loss of around 35 billion pesos ($2,800,000,000) a year.

Coppers Show Losses On Market

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (AP)—Coppers took some sharp losses today, lending emphasis to today's sluggish stock market decline.

Volume totaled a low 1,420,000 shares compared with 1,320,000 on Friday. This indicated that the cautious wait-and-see attitude was still prevailing.

The range of losses among key stocks went from around 1 to 3 points. Based on the decline in the average, the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange dropped an estimated $1,700,000,000.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell $1.40 to $172.10 with the industrials down $2.40, the rails down $1.20 to their new 1957 low and the utilities down 40 cents to a new low for the year.

Of 1,139 issues traded, declines outnumbered advances by 600 to 223. There were 105 new lows for the year and only 2 new highs.

Tone
The depressed tone of the session was further demonstrated by the fact that 14 of the 15 most active stocks were losers and one was unchanged.

Taking the worst of the selling pressure in the copper group, Anaconda headed the most active list, down 2 1/2 at 49 1/2 on 24,100 shares.

Second was Standard Oil (New Jersey), off 1/2 at 60 1/2 on 18,300 shares. Third was Sperry Rand, off 1/4 at 20 1/2 on 18,200 shares.

Next came General Motors, off 1/4 at 47 1/2, followed by Royal Dutch, off 1/4 at 53.

Other losses among the coppers included Kennecott 3/4 and Phelps Dodge 1 1/2. International Nickel, also affected by the copper price dip, lost 1 1/2 and American Smelting dropped 1 1/2.

Steels and motors escaped mainly with fractional losses but Lukens was down 1/4.

Prices also were lower on the American Stock Exchange. Corporate bonds were mixed to slightly lower. U. S. government bonds advanced.

New York Butter
NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (AP)—USDA Butter steady to firm. Receipts (2 days) 403,000. Wholesale prices on bulk cartons: Fresh Creamery, 93 score (A), 61 1/2-62 cents; 92 score (A), 61 1/2-61 3/4; 90 score (B), 60 3/4-61.

Classes To Begin In School For Rescue Operations Tonight

Registration Listed For Opening Day

REGISTRATION for an advanced course in Rescue Operation and Technique, will take place at the East Stroudsburg Fire Department rooms today at 7 p.m.

M. Eugene Leffler, coordinator of Rescue Operations for Monroe County Civil Defense, will direct this latest course.

John and David Smith, of the Tishamann Signal Corps Depot, will serve as instructors. The Smiths have a great deal of experience as rescue instructors in Baltimore. They developed exhibition rescue squads which have been seen nationally on television and in the movies.

Assistant instructors for the course are Earl Palmer, Jay Snover, Ted Hoffman, Al Trimmer and others.

This new program will feature advanced rescue techniques, not covered in the previous basic course. But, interested men may take this course, even though they didn't take part in the basic course. They will have to cover the basic studies at a later date.

This course has full state approval and certification will be presented.

Interested parties should appear at the opening of tonight's course or contact officials at C.D. Headquarters, at the Court House.

Leffler also announced that a rescue course for women will be presented in the near future. Enrollment is being taken at the present time.

Amendments Explained For Laws

Hansen said the danger if the merchant exercises his "reasonable" rights under the law is the same as in any case of an arrest by a citizen.

"An officer can make a mistake—the layman cannot," the district attorney said.

He added the effect of the law is the manner in which it is decided to enforce it. He suggested that the merchants wait and see the law in its final form before taking any action under its provisions.

Hansen was introduced by Jack Kerlin.

In the discussion which followed Hansen's talk, Ernest Wyckoff, chairman of the board of A. B. Wyckoff Dept. Store, called Stroudsburg an "easy mark" for shoplifters.

He advocated a program of education in the county's schools emphasizing that honesty is the best policy.

"I think we should try to help these kids," he said. "We will do them a great blessing if we stop them before they go too far."

He pointed out that a similar campaign was launched in Stroudsburg about four years ago and said that it was well received by the youthful audience to which it was addressed.

Syracuse Student Speaks To Group

THERE WAS a meeting of the Lutheran League at St. John's Church last night. Miss Ruth Fetherman, who is a junior at the University of Syracuse, was guest speaker.

She presented a talk on the colleges and universities and outlined the recent convention in Minneapolis. She told of the meeting of Bishop Hanover of Germany and of the meeting of Germans from India and Africa.

Bus Travel Drops

NEWCASTLE - ON - TYNE, Sept. 9 (AP) — North England's bus lines have official permission to raise fares to make up for a loss of a million passenger fares last year. A bus spokesman said the loss resulted from people staying home nights watching TV.

NUERNBERG, Sept. 9 (AP) — West German unemployment dropped to a postwar low of 365,002 last month. The gain in jobs filled during August was 25,248.

New Floor Care Ends Waxing

One of the difficult jobs of housekeeping is to wax linoleum and asphalt tile floors. Now, thanks to Glaxo, it's no longer necessary to wax and scrub just apply Glaxo about twice a year. It maintains a high lustre, non slip coating that seals out dirt. Glaxo dries in one hour and is water clear. It's cheaper than wax in the long run, besides saving a terrific amount of work, plus truly a beautiful floor.

Dellaria Twins Receive Nomination For Entrance Into Air Force Academy

REP. FRANCIS E. WALTER has nominated Paul L. and Robert J. Dellaria to the Air Force Academy for 1958.

The Dellaria twins are now stationed in Paris, France. As in civilian life the Dellaria twins are inseparable in their careers as members of the U.S. Air Force.

The academy nominees are the 18 year old sons of Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Dellaria, 58 Prospect St., East Stroudsburg.

Their lives have been closely entwined, as is the case of most identical twins, since they first saw the light of day in August, 1938.

High School They went to school together and graduated from East Stroudsburg High School in June 1956. Then last December, they enlisted in the Air Force under the buddy system and were sent to the same training camps.

The boys received four weeks of basic training at Lackland AFB in San Antonio, Tex., and then were stationed at Sheppard AFB, Wichita Falls, Tex., for six weeks of training in the finance school.

Both boys are now waiting to undergo examination, in an effort to win appointment to the Academy. The Air Force Academy is in Denver.

Vets Receive Warning On Registration

HARRISBURG — Col. William B. Freeland, Deputy Adjutant General for Veterans Affairs of the Pennsylvania Department of Military Affairs, reminds all veterans that to be eligible to vote November 5, 1957, on an amendment to the Constitution of Pennsylvania making it possible for the Commonwealth to increase its indebtedness in order to pay a bonus to Veterans of the Korean Conflict, you must be registered on or before September 16.

The only exception to this rule is in the case of a veteran who is bedridden or hospitalized due to illness or physical disability contracted or suffered in connection with or as the result of military service. According to Act No. 316 approved and signed by Governor George M. Leader July 8, 1957, persons in the above category . . . "may vote under the provisions of this act in any election held in this Commonwealth if he is (1) unavoidably absent from the state or county of his residence regardless of whether he is registered or enrolled or (2) in the county of residence and is registered and enrolled."

Colonel Freeland then said, "Payment authorized by the 'Korean Veterans Compensation Act' cannot be made until funds are provided. An amendment to the Constitution authorizing the sale of bonds to secure funds for this purpose will be decided upon by the voters at the polls during the 1957 elections on November 5."

In further discussion of the amendment to be voted upon, Colonel Freeland said, "The people of Pennsylvania have always been very generous to those who in times of danger have been willing to risk their future and even their lives to protect our way of life. Veterans of the Spanish-American War, World War I and World War II were given a monetary consideration by a grateful Commonwealth." Colonel Freeland continued, "I feel that the people should in all fairness, continue this policy on behalf of the Veterans of the Korean conflict."

Support Concert Drive

Although not a major cultural center in itself, the Pocono Mountains region offers a great many cultural advantages not found in most communities of similar size.

Its people are fond of the arts—music, painting, literature, drama, etc. This is especially true because of the large number of people who are attracted to this resort area from all parts of the country.

Moreover, the seeds of culture find fertile soil in which to grow in an environment that is rich in scenic beauty, close to the metropolitan centers, and one which abounds in historical interest, natural resources and educational facilities.

It is only natural, therefore, to find a group such as the Community Concert Assn. functioning year after year to bring the best in music to our area. Some of the world's greatest instrumentalists and concert groups have appeared here under sponsorship of the association.

But, like so many other good things in life, the entire concert-year program entails a lot of hard work, headaches and not always the proper appreciation for what has been done by the volunteer workers to put the program across.

The Community Concert Assn. must sell in the neighborhood of 700 season tickets to finance the high-type of attractions it seeks to bring before local audiences at a price that is within the reach of everyone.

Its annual ticket sale is now under way. It will not be extended beyond the one week ending Saturday. Partial success will mean some sort of curtailment in the concert program. On the other hand, music-lovers can assure themselves and their neighbors the best talent obtainable by putting the campaign over the top.

The ticket sale should have the immediate support of everyone who appreciates good music, regardless of what part of the county they may reside.

Illiteracy Far Too Great

If you like a guessing contest try this one: How many adults in the United States have never gone beyond the fourth grade in school?

That's considered the minimum level of schooling for literate persons. Those of any age who fail to complete the fourth grade curriculum are classified as "functional illiterates."

So if you were guessing, what figure would you set for "functional illiterates"? Would you say two million? Four million? Or as many as seven million?

The correct answer, shockingly, is 10 million—according to Dr. Willard E. Givens, chairman of the newly organized National Commission on Literacy.

That's difficult to believe in a country said to be as enlightened as the United States. Yet records show we have four million native whites, mostly in the mountain regions, who have never gotten as far as the fourth grade in school.

There's another four million foreign-born whites without minimum schooling. Most of them are concentrated in our largest cities. The remainder are Negroes residing principally in industrial centers.

You cannot think of this astonishing figure without realizing a tragic waste of human resources is occurring in this nation.

Persons who cannot adequately read or write can hardly be expected to be contributing members of society or happy in their own living.

These 10 million "functional illiterates" represent a challenge to our system of universal education.

Politics In Virginia

By Thomas A. Hanes
Managing Editor, Ledger-Star
Norfolk, Va., Sept. 9—State Senator Ted Dalton hopes to become Virginia's first Republican Governor.

Attorney General J. Lindsay Almond, Jr., hopes Dalton won't make the grade.

Although both candidates are making like generals who are afraid their mortars are loaded with boomerangs, the voters are having no trouble locating the battle lines.

They are drawn in black and white.

For the first time since an army of occupation supervised its elections, Virginia faces a gubernatorial campaign in which the race issue dwarfs all other political considerations.

As might be expected under the circumstances, the electorate is witnessing interesting coalitions and realignments, particularly on the Republican side, where recent arrivals are not exactly political bedfellows.

They're just occupying the same bedroom, a kind of dormitory arrangement, with coats and hammocks all over the place, but offering sleeping facilities of sorts to anybody who is reluctant to choose between an inspersing mattress and a park bench.

Negroes, liberals, left-wingers and integrationists, former darlings of the national Democratic Party who reluctantly went along for the ride with the state organization, have switched sweethearts all over the place, but offering sleeping facilities of sorts to anybody who is reluctant to choose between an inspersing mattress and a park bench.

It is within these areas that many of Pennsylvania's top educational officials are looking longingly, hopefully, and it might be said—holidly.

One of these areas embraces the field of school district consolidation—unions, jointures, mergers, or whatever one prefers to call it.

This is one field where the punch-out may come hard if plans now being testily toyed with materialize.

A few cautious "exploratory" steps have already been taken in this direction.

In theory the state cannot force mergers of local districts—or can it? This may well become the focal point in the growing state versus local struggle.

As Attorney General, Almond, an old-style orator with spellbinding ability, has spearheaded Virginia's court fights to keep schools segregated.

"If we yield one inch," he said, "we are lost forever."

Offered as an alternative to Virginia's anti-integration laws is a locally administered pupil assignment plan which is bitterly opposed by the state administration. It would provide for an assignment of pupils to schools for reasons other than race. Since the plan would ultimately permit a degree of integration it was dropped like a hot potato by the administration.

Application of simple arithmetic might make it appear that Virginia could well have a Republican Governor. Since approximately ten percent of the qualified voters are negroes who are admittedly in the Republican bag, their shift could turn the tide, provided, of course, Dalton can get the proportionate share of the white vote previously rallied by him.

One of the truisms of politics is that emotionalism and sentiment are not the bedfellows of arithmetic. That's plain black and white.

In Virginia 90 percent of the voters are white.

One of the leading advocates during last year's legislative fight was Dalton, who disclaims any fondness for integration. His attachment to Southern traditions is not debatable. His two grandfathers fought for the Confederacy. One, Captain Giles Martin, was a slave owner. The other, Thomas (Spade) Dalton, was strongly opposed to slavery and became a Republican after the war.

Informal and genial, 56-year-old Dalton is unchallenged as Virginia's top Republican. He was elected to the State Senate in 1943 as a write-in candidate. Twice since he has beaten formidable Democratic opposition in his district. He has been National Republican Committee member from Virginia since 1952.

He polled 45 percent of the vote in his 1953 bid for the governorship against Thomas B. Stanley.

Because Dalton knows first-hand the power of the state Democratic organization, he was reluctant to offer a challenge this year. Additionally he didn't relish the prospect of being labeled an integrationist in the campaign.

When he finally announced, he said he would become a candidate "in an effort to give the people of Virginia an opportunity to save our separate schools."

But whether Dalton likes it or not, he finds himself in the position of having to defend his party's leadership in the integration movement. Even President Eisenhower, who twice carried Virginia as a result of Senator Byrd's lack of enthusiasm for Democratic candidates, has lost a tremendous amount of the personal popularity that contributed largely to Dalton's showing four years ago.

The President's failure to attend the International Naval Review in Hampton Roads last June has been interpreted by some as a deliberate snub of Virginia because of the state's attitude toward public school integration.

Application of simple arithmetic might make it appear that Virginia could well have a Republican Governor. Since approximately ten percent of the qualified voters are negroes who are admittedly in the Republican bag, their shift could turn the tide, provided, of course, Dalton can get the proportionate share of the white vote previously rallied by him.

Hollywood's Troubles

The "Confidential" trial creates no new atmosphere in Hollywood; publicity men have long attracted attention to the peccadilloes of their clients to make them increasingly attractive to customers who prefer their celebrities to be wicked. Or so they, the publicity men and their employers, believe.

When a volunteer group undertook to drive the Communists out of Hollywood, the management and various guilds of the motion picture profession fought back on the ground that art is unrelated to politics and that freedom of expression included motion pictures which is a commercial enterprise designed to earn money for those in the trade. Therefore when the protest against Communist infiltration into Hollywood became so serious that it could be counted at the boxoffice, some of management agreed to a process of cleaning out the stable.

Unfortunately many in management were swindlers. They secretly employed the Communists under false names. They subsidized foreign movies where the American Communists found work under assumed names. They convinced some of the opportunities to swear repentance, knowing that not a word of it was true. In the end, the Communists won the battle and they are back on the job in Hollywood, and in television, building their party's treasury out of the money paid by their opponents. It is an amazing picture of persistence and cooperation.

Meanwhile, the industry is generally speaking in an unfortunate financial situation, largely due to television and to the inability of young people to pay the box office price for trivial, unexciting pictures.

"Confidential" was involved in a libel suit and the trial has been more ugly than anything that appeared in that unpalatable magazine. It has been both a shameful and a shameless performance and does raise the question as to whether the "celebrities" are worthy heroes and heroines for the children of the nation who now see them not only in dark theaters but in the home where a wise kid, who is not a square, can recite a star's wickedness and marriages, as in another century such a child could list the Presidents of the United States in order.

When a hero looks, in real life, like a bum, and a heroine like a silly free-for-all, the kids are psychologically damaged.

Walter Kerr, drama critic of the New York Herald Tribune, issued a little book in 1956, entitled "Criticism and Censorship," in which he opposes censorship and pleads for unfettered art. Kerr is a

Roman Catholic and in this book, speaks as such. He says: "When the Catholic turns to criticism, then, he does not content himself with forming an additional obligation to make a guess—he hopes it will be an informed one—about the work's subsequent influence on the behavior of the reader. More than that, he tells the reader whether or not he ought to read it. He thus assumes, above and beyond his role as critic, the role of censor. He is, in effect, critic and censor rolled into one—and, at the last, it is in his role of censor that he hands down his verdict."

But am I, as a free man, to refrain from saying that I dislike a picture, a book, a play, a song for whatever reason I dislike them? It may be an aesthetic reason, in which case Kerr would say it could be criticism; but if the reason for dislike is moral, a rejection of the indecent, a denunciation of the false—then it is censorship. If so, we are all censors, for even in our conversations that is precisely what we do.

Inside Washington

Reuther Quiz Due Next

By Henry Cathart
Central Press Writer
Washington—Walter Reuther, vice president of the AFL-CIO and president of the CIO-United Auto Workers, is the next top target of the select Senate committee investigating improper labor-management practices.

The Reuther hearings, however, are not expected to yield such "juicy" disclosures of alleged racketeering as those based during the investigations of Teamsters Union President Dave Beck and his "crown prince," James R. Hoffa.

Instead, the quiz will center on the methods used by the dynamic UAW chief in his rise to power. It is possible that the senators may seek new information about the story behind the attempt to assassinate Reuther several years ago.

Senator Barry Goldwater (R, Arizona), is Reuther's chief foe on the labor rackets committee. Goldwater has spent months assembling data for use in connection with the coming hearings.

New Headlines—The congressional subcommittee that has been investigating the sports world will be making headlines again in the next few months.

The lawmakers appear to be in near-unanimous agreement that the "business" phases of professional team sports should be placed under some type of anti-trust supervision.

There's a difference within the subcommittee on just what type of legislation is required to carry out this goal, but observers believe that this problem can be ironed out.

Hearings on team sports will be followed within a few months by an investigation of professional boxing, and possibly wrestling and harness racing.

Subcommittee members say that their hearings have had beneficial results, even if their findings are never translated into law. They point to the value of spotlighting alleged abuses in such sports as big league baseball and pro football.

The Once Over

New York is to have a musical of "Sherlock Holmes." We anticipate a Watson Trio.

Yard ballet and a Holmes and Watson with a sparkling dance routine. Possible titles: "The Bulls Are Ringing," "Sieuth Pacific" and "My Fair Gumshoe."

Murder and horror themes are quite the thing on the stage these days and it may be logical to expect some killings with words and music. We can fancy Sherlock going over the gory premises with a chorus line, and Watson doing his bungling as a member of a quartette.

Watson—Where are we going now, Holmes?

Sherlock—This is the case of the headless widow of Wilston-on-Deedpith Downs, my dear Watson. Come along, and watch your musical cues!

Sal Maglie, now a Yankee pitcher, has hurried for the Dodgers and Giants in the past, and is perhaps the only pitcher ever to serve the three New York clubs. As a tonsorialist will he now be known as the Yankee Clipper?

Sal can't play in the series but he can be annoying to the enemy by yelling from the dugout, "Bay rum or witch hazel?" A wonderful mood was lost when the Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Giants met for the last time. For 75 years or so clashes between the Giants and the "Bums" had been something unique in baseball. Color, high drama, comedy and the cockeyed twist featured these games for generations. "Anything can happen in a Giant-Dodger game and generally does" was a famous saying. At few sporting events could you count on the circus-like mood of an Ebbetts Field meeting between these rivals. Probably more riots, free-for-all fights, spectacular hassles wild swings, chin-to-chin arguments and really grand comedy routines took place at Giant-Brooklyn games than in any other clashes in athletic history. Yes, there will still be a Giant team, but it will not be the Polo Grounds outfit—the traditional "foe from across the river."

It will be the Frisco Giants, and long distance will wipe out the old-time do or die spirit. (After all, the neighborhood mood will be gone, and who can work up as fine a frenzy of belligerency as can one neighbor against another? It was refreshing just to hear the name of the winner of the recent Saratoga Hopeful, "Rose Trellis.")

For this is a turf age when some extra monstrous monickers are tacked on to thoroughbreds, hundreds of them so devoid of beauty that the skimmers must feel insulted. There was a time when great sentiment was shown in making thoroughbreds, but anything goes today, and on the same card with "Rose Trellis" were "Goulash," "Isaws," "Popcorn" and "Small Change."

Fisherman were leading culprits in boat accidents this year, as they figured in a high proportion of accidents. News item. Ya mean they didn't get out of the way for all motorboat speed maniacs!!!

Judy Holliday and Sid Chaplin, son of Charlie Chaplin, are to be married, and are guests of the one-time great comic in Switzerland. Sid is a serious actor and has been playing opposite Judy in a big musical. Judy is the comedian. Times Square and Broadway, N. Y., saw a scene never before beheld there on a recent Sunday night when around 100,000 packed the street shoulder-to-shoulder for Billy Graham's farewell. It was almost incredible in this street of the cynical, hardboiled and fun mad (the area of pop song (famed bars and frivolities) to hear gospel hymns ringing through the crowd and watch tens of thousands with heads bowed in prayer. For once the pitchers, the scoffers, the playboys and the monkeytanks seemed effaced, and a Times Square multitude took on the mood of the reverent "plain folks," indicating what this corner has always held that a big city has in proportion to its members as many religious, church-going people as any small city or town. This final Graham-Gotham took place at Giant-Brooklyn games than in any other clashes in athletic history. Yes, there will still be a Giant team, but it will not be the Polo Grounds outfit—the traditional "foe from across the river."

Local Fans Attend Golf Exhibition

by Jim Riley

One of the highlights of this reporter's recent one-week vacation was watching Jack Cut-tle, veteran golf pro at Pocono Manor, show the younger and bigger name professionals how this game of golf is played. Jack, who is everybody's friend, was the sentimental favorite of the gallery—and he filled the role to perfection. Jack's brilliant approach shot on number two and steady putting on the early holes gave the large crowd an idea of what to expect.

Jack was playing his first round of golf last Saturday since August 18, except for 27 holes the previous Thursday.

He was also playing with the realization that his stepson, Lauri Jackson, had become a father for the third time that very moment. The Jackson household now has three girls. Lauri lived at Pocono Manor for many years.

Local people present at the match included Walter Sebring, Tannersville; Paul Compton, Stroudsburg; John Roeder, Scottrun; Louis DePaul, Mount Pocono; John DeSanto, Pocono Summit; Percy Warner, Scott-run; Elmer Munch, Tannersville; George Smith, Stroudsburg; Forrest Cory, Stroudsburg; "Woody" German, Stroudsburg; Lou Sommers, East Stroudsburg; Lou Hoover, Stroudsburg; Marty Baldwin, Stroudsburg; Bill Jacques, East Stroudsburg; "Pike" Fredericks, Stroudsburg; Bob Youngken, Pocono Manor; Cliff Cramer, East Stroudsburg; Franklin Smith, Stroudsburg; Frank Radler Sr. and Jr., Stroudsburg; Mrs. Ted Beadle, Pocono Manor; Mr. and Mrs. Gray Carpenter, Pocono Manor; Art Youngken, East Stroudsburg RDS, and Bill Hudock, Stroudsburg.

There were other residents of Monroe County present too, but they escape my memory at the present time.

Monsignor C. A. McHugh and Father Robert Gallagher, both of the Pocono Catholic Missions, took part in the Francis Cardinal Spellman ceremonies at Yankee Stadium on Saturday.

They both took part in the actual ceremonies on the field, which included thousands of priests and was watched by 50,000 people.

Gray Carpenter, Pocono Manor, is preparing for a trip to Oregon.

It's a business journey for the insurance executive, who has his main office in New York.

Jack and Marge Chapman, who used to live at 1835 W. Main St., Stroudsburg, will run the Youth Hostel in LaAnna this year.

Jack is also a student at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

Both Marge and Jack are natives of Lake Ariel.

They succeeded Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Rees, who have accepted employment in New Jersey.

John Wernett, secretary of the Pocono Mountains Baseball League, returned from a trip to Pittsburgh and Indian-town Gap on Sunday.

He got home in time to see the Bushkill-Lake Harmony playoff struggle, thus maintaining his record of having not missed a league game in 12 years as secretary.

Try and Stop Me

—by Bennet Cerf

John Straley tells about a handyman who developed a powerful yen for a pair of fawn-colored slacks in his boss' wardrobe and, figuring they would be given to him eventually, resolved to help thing along a bit. He rubbed some grease into them in two prominent places, then told the owner, "Nothing I tries gits out the spots. Reckon you can't wear them pants no more."

"Funny," mused the owner. "Have you tried ammonia?"

"I sure has," grinned the handyman, "and they ats like a glove."

The Pennsylvania Story

Shift In Power?

By Mason Donlon

Harrisburg—Local school districts are in for some heavy-handed knuckle-rapping from the state level if hereafter education officials close to top-level policy plans now being kicked around are carried out.

Top education officials publicly shy away in adroit horror from any such thought as attempting to strengthen the hand of the Department of Public Instruction over local school districts.

Yet from top sources this column has learned that such hoped-for changes are brewing.

What may kill the ambitious projected change and send it quietly scurrying back into pigeon holes to gather dust in conformation is exposure of the plan before it can be placed fully into effect.

Whether it would be better to have greater local autonomy or increased state regulation and standardization is not a point of debate at this point.

The fact remains that within the hierarchy of the Department of Public Instruction there is an element urging adoption of a stricter and more tight-reined administration over local districts from the state level.

This is the story:

Heretofore Pennsylvania's top education agency—the Department of Public Instruction—has been looked upon in a somewhat benign and paternal light by both local school districts and departmental officials.

The role of the department in the educational field historically has been one of gentle cooperation with local school districts—offering guidance, counsel and deep-thought suggestions and recommendations.

On the other hand there have been certain areas where by statutory mandate the department has had to toe the line—where there has been little room for an area of deep-seated debate and deliberation as to responsibility.

To simply illustrate the point: the department by law must approve the site location of a proposed new school building—and by law the plans must be approved by the department.

This is a case of simple spell-out of responsibility. (However interestingly enough, in one southeastern county a few years ago the department woke up one morning to find that a school district has built a new building without either the site or the building being previously approved—much to the cluck-clucking of disapproval and pothered state officials.)

There are other areas where strict spell-out of strict limitations of authority or responsibility on the state level is not so concise, where there is room for—to use a favorite bureaucratic term—"administrative latitude of interpretation."

It is within these areas that many of Pennsylvania's top educational officials are looking longingly, hopefully, and it might be said—holidly.

One of these areas embraces the field of school district consolidation—unions, jointures, mergers, or whatever one prefers to call it.

This is one field where the punch-out may come hard if plans now being testily toyed with materialize.

A few cautious "exploratory" steps have already been taken in this direction.

In theory the state cannot force mergers of local districts—or can it? This may well become the focal point in the growing state versus local struggle.

As Attorney General, Almond, an old-style orator with spellbinding ability, has spearheaded Virginia's court fights to keep schools segregated.

"If we yield one inch," he said, "we are lost forever."

Offered as an alternative to Virginia's anti-integration laws is a locally administered pupil assignment plan which is bitterly opposed by the state administration. It would provide for an assignment of pupils to schools for reasons other than race. Since the plan would ultimately permit a degree of integration it was dropped like a hot potato by the administration.

Application of simple arithmetic might make it appear that Virginia could well have a Republican Governor. Since approximately ten percent of the qualified voters are negroes who are admittedly in the Republican bag, their shift could turn the tide, provided, of course, Dalton can get the proportionate share of the white vote previously rallied by him.

One of the truisms of politics is that emotionalism and sentiment are not the bedfellows of arithmetic. That's plain black and white.

In Virginia 90 percent of the voters are white.

What Young People Think

Teen-Agers Split On Fraternities

Nationwide Survey Shows Even Split

By Eugene Gilbert
President of the Gilbert
Youth Research Co.

DO FRATERNITIES and sororities have a proper place on the high school campus? As schools take up again, teen-age opinion is divided sharply on the subject, with the opposing camps of nearly equal strength.

Our nationwide survey on this topic, which occasionally has agitated parents and educators showed 56 per cent of the girls and 40 per cent of the boys hostile to the organization. And it produces a spate of widely contrasting comments.

A high school student from Southern California, for instance, insisted that "It's the do-gooders and creeps who hate fraternities and sororities. These groups are an important part of high school life and should be strengthened rather than outlawed."

But a 17-year-old boy felt the clubs are "un-American" and should be barred. "Nothing breeds prejudice more quickly," an 18-year-old girl noted, "than clubs where one group is free to exclude whomever they want."

Membership Small
Generally, those in the anti-fraternity forces argued that they "build up a sense of inferiority in people not invited to join," limit one's social circle, and "make some people think they're better than others."

From the pro's came assertions that such organizations have "always been a part of American school life and belong there." Said one high school sophomore, "They have them on nearly every college campus. Why not in high school?"

But the actual membership of these bodies is fairly small, the survey indicates. Only 11 per cent of boys between 13 and 15 years belong, and 25 per cent of those 16 and older. High school sororities enrolled only 9 per cent of girls from 13 to 15, and 17 per cent of older girls. The survey covered schools both with and without fraternal organizations.

Hostility on the part of many education officials doubtless has been an important factor in inhibiting the growth of the associations. Nationally, the picture is "an extremely spotty one," says Dr. Ellsworth Tompkins, Asst. Superintendent of the National Assn. of Secondary School Principals in Washington.

Most larger states have banned them, he noted, and the "general tendency" in localities where the societies are permitted is for educators to try to minimize their influence through a varied fare of regular school activities.

Doubtful
"I don't believe high school fraternities and sororities are growing nationally," the educator said. "They're on their way out in some places, although they have presented a persistent problem in some cities."

In the nation's capital, the associations are permitted but lack formal recognition by school authorities, according to Dr. Carl F. Hansen, Asst. Superintendent of the District of Columbia Board of Education. "They shouldn't be part of school activities," he added, "because they're undemocratic in character, too exclusive, cliquish and cliquish."

Only one out of four of the non-members we queried admit they would like to join if invited. "All the campus big wheels are members," explained a 15-year-old West Virginian, who would be only too happy. "I certainly would like to get in with some of them." And a Charlotte, N. C., school girl: "I stuck out three years without sororities, and I finally decided I missed more than I gained. So I am joining one this term."

From the independents who plan to stay that way there were some harsh comments. "The sorority sisters at my school are all a bunch of phonies," a 14-year-old Florida girl declared. A Chicago girl: "The sororities are too cliquish for my taste. Even if they control most of the school events, I feel I am better off steering clear of them."

polish, and good times, among other things.

"I never knew what friendship meant," a 17-year-old boy said, "until I got sick and my fraternity brothers coached me until I could pass all my make-up examinations."

Stick By Friends

The social side was stressed by a sorority girl who said: "We fix up many girls with dates who otherwise would never have any. And you'd be surprised how quickly those girls develop confidence in themselves."

CONSTIPATED?

New laxative discovery un-locks bowel blocks without gag, bloot or gripe

Constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrift" colon that, instead of retaining moisture as it should, does the opposite: robs the colon of so much moisture that its contents become dehydrated, so dry that they block the bowel; so shrunken that they fail to excite or stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

To regain normal regularity, the dry, shrunken, constipating contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be re-moistened. Second, bulk must be brought to your colon to S-T-R-E-T-C-H STIMULATE it to action; to a normal urge to purge.

And, of all laxatives, only COLONAL, the amazing new laxative discovery possesses COLONAL's great moisturizing capacity, plus COLONAL's stretch-simulating bulk. So effective it relieves even chronic constipation overnight, COLONAL is yet so smooth, so gentle it has proved safe even for women in critical stages of pregnancy.

Superior to old style bulk, salt or drug laxatives, COLONAL neither gags, bloats nor gripes; won't interfere with absorption of vitamins and other valuable food nutrients; in clinical tests, did not cause rash or other reactions. It's a physiological fact: Exercise tones your body! And COLONAL exercises your colon to tone it against constipation, overnight! Get COLONAL, in easy-to-take tablet form at any drug counter, today! Only 98¢ for the 60 tablet package, brings positive relief at less than 2¢ per tablet.

VFW Post To Feature Session

THOMAS P. Lambert Post No. 2540, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will hold its regular monthly meeting at the post home today at 8 p.m.

Commander Fred Fieiler will have a report from the Department Commander, which will be of interest to those members who weren't able to meet the state official during his recent visit.

Reception Fountain

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (AP)—Persons arriving in New York via Idlewild Airport in the future may have a 60-foot illuminated fountain as their first sight. The fountain, demonstrated yesterday, is located in the center of a 200-foot pool before the new International Arrivals Building of the big airport. Lighting arrangements will provide constantly shifting colors ranging from deep tones at the stem of the gusher to soft pastel blends at the top.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

After tallying up the meetings for today and coming up with a total of 14, I've decided this one-woman crusade to get people to join things had better ease up. Maybe a counter-campaign would be better: a let's stay home - and - mop - the floor club, for instance.

In my motherly moments, I'm always hopeful of starting a let's-do-things-as-a-family club. Although I must admit it's never been a success, might call a rousing success.

Part of the reason is the nature of the things I suggest, ever so brightly, that we might do as a family. Things like cleaning out the cellar, or launching a concerted campaign on the litter that's accumulated in the yard.

But even when it's for pure pleasure, there are obstacles. For one thing, children have their own commitments. If it isn't that they promised to go roller skating after school with the children down the street, they've got a scout meeting or junior choir rehearsal, or homework, or a date.

And for another thing, after a certain age, they prefer to be an individual in their own right rather than part of a family, especially when it's an artificial, conscience-stricken suggestion from a parent who has been altogether too busy with his own concerns.

For Sunday trips or Saturday outings, you have to catch 'em when they're young, and then probably include an assorted number of friends, or go dragging along a couple of rebellious kids who'd rather be doing something else.

Looking back on the Summer, it seems that the happiest family times of all haven't been the organized, planned-for, and instigated times but the ones that just happened: The unexpected hour around the piano with everybody playing something or trying to sing while the chicken finished roasting. The late-at-night talking over an exciting experience. The early morning golf game when you should have been ironing.

Those are the things you can't plan — but on the other hand never, never let them get away from you because they interfere with sensible things like work or sleep. Those you have with you always.

Starnes At College In Mexico C.

Tannersville — Edwin Starnes, who has left for Mexico City where he will attend Mexico City College, was the guest of honor at a farewell dinner. Edwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Starnes of Tannersville, will major in business administration and foreign countries.

At the farewell dinner were Miss Jeanne Gurr, Mrs. Edith Gurr, Bruce Frantz, Chick Roeder, Charles Youngken, Miss Pat Tarr, Jane, Philip and Lowell Starnes, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Starnes.

EVEN A HEMLOCK HALO—at least that's what it looks as if Clinton Kresges had as he helps his wife to cut their golden wedding anniversary cake at the supper in their honor on Sunday night. The hemlock decorations around the hall not only give the effect of a top-knot but add the suggestion of wings. The Kresges were married 50 years ago today.

Community Pays Tribute To The Clinton Kresges

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Kresges of Snyder'sville were honored on their golden wedding anniversary with a supper party on Sunday night at the firehall in Tannersville. There were about 150 present for the party, arranged by the Women's Guild of the Grace Church of Christ, Tannersville.

The hall was decorated with boughs of hemlock, flowers and autumn foliage, with gold as the predominating color. A large decorated wedding cake was the climax of the supper.

The Kresges received two money trees, one from their five children, and one from the Women's Guild in addition to the personal gifts of many of their friends.

Clinton Kresges, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kresges of Snyder'sville, took as his bride Miss Rosanna Dunlap, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Dunlap, on September 10, 1907. They were married in the parsonage of Rev. B. F. Apple, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, Stroudsburg.

They have lived in the Snyder'sville area during most of their married life. Mr. Kresges engaged in farming.

They have five children: Elmer of Tannersville, Alfred of Snyder'sville, Howard of Stroudsburg, RD 1, Mrs. Mildred Shellenberger of South Bend, Ind., and Stanley of Snyder'sville. They have 16 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

J. P. Wallace Entering Brown U.

A communication from the Lawrence H. Seiz Organization, Inc., Chicago, Ill., informs me that a lot of ladies have husbands who were members of the Do-It-Yourself cult and ended up as members of the Botch-It-Yourself cult. This is about the truth of it, and I admire the Seiz organization for saying so right out loud. Let's face it, not everyone is capable of hanging shelves, making a coffee table or corner cupboard, or even painting a numbered picture. But then, on the other side of the fence, is the person like myself who'd much rather let John do it, and play the difference. The only Do-It-Yourself idea that really appeals to me, is the making of those Christmas kits from our Notions department. My daughter and I might have fun creating the snow man, or the French Poodle. One of those evenings, we'll give it a try. ... People who live in glass houses shouldn't throw stones. But people named HOULZ apparently manufacture some of the cutest sculptured glass articles ever sold in our store. Those Christmas Tray Kards I wrote about the other day are from TOUTZART GLASS. Wonder why they don't call it "The Glass House?" ... A gentleman who read last Thursday's column utilizing the names of movies and plays, said he composed a poem of praise to me which began, "There once was a dame named Maloney, who was gifted at spreading balcony, but so much was so good, we readers (as should) just swallowed, and spent all our MOAN-ey." (At Wyckoff's, of course?????) ... Seriously, I am most appreciative of the many comments about that column. It's always a thrill to know that something you've written was read by more than a linkypeman, your mother, and the guy who pays the bill. ... Talk about the joys of motherhood! They were just a wee bit thin, don't you think, when your young Tomboy comes in sobbing because her brand new, most flattering dress, was ripped beyond repair when she tried to climb over a fence enroute from school? Thank goodness I bought it here at Wyckoff's, for it really wasn't expensive at all, in comparison with some of the clothes I've seen in other stores. ... My son bought a shirt in another store last week because the color was giddy—and that's his taste! But it looks pretty miserable compared to the 2.98 Wyckoff shirt. We pointed out the difference to him—in material, in workmanship, and cut, and he admitted that maybe he'd made a mistake. It just goes to show how blinding a color can be! ... used dusting paper. I never have, but for years my Mother used a dusting paper treated with furniture polish. Hazel says we are stocking this now at Wyckoff's. Mrs. Hayward's Dusting Paper, it's called, and supposedly very fine. Try it and see for yourself! ... Seems to me that the cover girl for Redbook, this month bears a striking resemblance to Gracie Grace. Holt Wyckoff is a bit dubious, but Bill Willis and her former boss, J. L. Kerlin, noted the resemblance instantly. Wonder if Gracie is being a model—as well as a model mother—in her spare time?

entertain an everyone will have a good time? As long as I am having no one why can't I make my own rules?" Among the features of the revision is a new chapter dealing with the "baggy" and the individual and how the individual can win confidence in herself.

Ronson Wins Softball Runoff Opener

O'Melko's Sacrifice Fly In 7th Downs Kulp's, 11-10

DICK O'MELKO'S long fly in the last inning sent home Roberts with the winning run as Ronson gained a leg in the Industrial Softball League playoff finals by edging Kulp's Foundry, 11-10 last night.

O'Melko's sacrifice fly broke a 10-10 stalemate after Kulp's had knotted the count in their half of the seventh.

Ray Gallagher went all the way for the Ronson mound victory, besting C. Altomere.

Top Hitter
A Roberts, with three hits led the victors attack. C. Hine-line, B. Freeman and T. Gallagher also aided with two hits each.

B. Herr, B. VanWhy, R. Ralph Freeman, and Altomere were two-time baseknockers for Kulp's.

After Kulp's shot away to a four-run lead in the opening frame, Ronson came back with nine in the first two innings to take a 9-4 edge. Kulp's kept pecking away and finally tied it in the seventh, setting up O'Melko's tie-breaking fly.

The linescore:
Kulp's.....401 130 1-10
Ronson.....630 010 1-11

Batteries: R. Gallagher and T. Gallagher, Ronson; C. Altomere and H. Westcott, Kulp's.

There is a strong wind circulating a report that a night baseball loop will take in two teams from the area. The announcement came out of Scranton and indicated that the Strouds and a team from Bangor would be part of a six or eight team circuit.

According to the report, Carbondale, Petersburg Boosters, nines from Hazleton, Wilkes-Barre and Pittston are interested in the proposal.

The present plan calls for two night contests a week — preferably Tuesdays or Fridays. No Sunday ball will be scheduled, the advance notices say.

If the above is true, then we feel a good idea in the air. We honestly believe night ball on a two-game a week scale will take hold here.

The only drawback in this proposed measure is the distance between the towns. If the backers of each outfit are going to stay with strictly amateur and semi-pros, then the boys will have little sleep before reporting to their place of employment the next day.

However, as one friend of mine said many years ago, "if they like to play ball well enough, they will be able to endure anything. If it is a hardship then it is time to get out of the game."

Stroudsburg and its surrounding territory should be able to support a team in such a venture. If the club stays strictly amateur, and there is no reason why it shouldn't with the abundant supply of material hereabouts, then the cost of operating would be at a minimum. However, when you go into the play-for-pay ranks, the Yankee dollar makes itself known.

Only the cost of lights, balls and bats, and umpires are the basic cash output. A refreshment stand and a program might help balance some of this deficit. And 100 payees would probably take the club out of the "red" for that particular evening.

On away games, travel expenses and a meal for the ballplayers would be a must. This would be taken care of if the backers pushed the home games beyond the word "work". If someone wants anything but enough, extra effort always helps to bring it about.

We're all for a loop of this nature. And we think the area is ripe for it right now.

At the present time, the Strouds are fitted for such a move. The Frank Radler-managed nine has no league affiliation and has the players, with a little extra help, to give a good representative showing in an amateur, or if you prefer, semi-pro league.

This winter, nines from Hazleton, Scranton, Carbondale, Stroudsburg, Bangor, Wilkes-Barre, and Pittston will get together. We sincerely hope something materializes from the season.

QUICK PICKUPS — Lou Rosati, a former pitcher for the Stroudsburg Poconos of the now extinct North Atlantic League, has been named to a high position with a clothing firm in Scranton.

Rosati, it will be remembered, hurled during the early days of the NA.

The John Kupiec-Jerry Stulgaitis and Harold Storm-Jesse Hayne golf match was already signed, sealed and delivered for the Glen Brook Country Club course next Sunday.

However, a clambake is planned for that day at Glen Brook, and country club aides seemed it necessary to call off the match.

All the golfers had shown their willingness to play the match, and had excited the interest of area golf fans on the eventual outcome. Perhaps some other site could be made available for the foursome, and a fund or organization benefit by a duel at a time when sports locally is practically between seasons.

Pocono Bowling Starts Today

POCONO Major Bowling League will open its campaign today at the Pocono Bowling Center, Stroudsburg, starting at 7 p. m. The schedule:

Alleys one and two — BIGGS Restaurant vs. Heico, Inc.

Alleys three and four — Fabel's Golf vs. Analamunk.

Alleys five and six — Fabel's Dairy vs. Nebel's Market.

Alleys seven and eight — Lawson Automotive vs. Bush's Well Drilling.

Bethea Faces Johnson In Philly Bout

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9 (AP) — Harold Johnson, top challenger for the light-heavyweight crown will spot heavyweight Wayne Bethea about 20 pounds tomorrow night in a 10-round fight at Convention Hall.

This will be Johnson's first home appearance since the Philadelphia Negro was suspended for six months and fined following an investigation of his May, 1955, bout with Julius Mederos. Johnson suffered a T10 and allegedly was dragged before the fight. He complained about eating a "bitter orange" before entering the ring.

Johnson, winner in 2:24 of the first round in his last outing against Clarence Hinnant at St. Nicholas Arena, New York, expects to weigh about 175 pounds. Bethea of the Bronx, N.Y., is a 200 pounder.

There will be no television or radio broadcast of the bout.

Sugar On Card

While the Johnson-Bethea bout is the main event, fans expect to see Sugar Ray Robinson perform in a scheduled four round exhibition.

Robinson is taking the day off from his camp at Greenwood Lake, N.Y., where he has been preparing for his Sept. 23 middleweight title fight against Carmen Basilio. Robinson is slated to mix it with two sparring partners.

Yanks Purchase Ex-Buc Del Greco

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 9 (AP) — Bobby Del Greco, 24-year-old outfielder, has been sold by the Chicago Cubs to the New York Yankees, the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette said tonight.

Del Greco, who played most of this season with Montreal of the International League, said he will report to the Yankees at New York tomorrow night when they open a series with the Cleveland Indians.

He may substitute for Mickey Mantle, star outfielder who had been sidelined by a painful leg condition.

Tuesday Legion To Bowl Today

AMERICAN Legion Tuesday Night League will kickoff its 1957-58 bowling season today at the Legion alleys, East Stroudsburg, at 7 and 9 p. m.

9 P. M. Shift
Alleys one and two — Smeltz Electric vs. Serfass Gulf.

Alleys three and four — Kitty's Tavern vs. Slaterford Hotel.

Redleg Makes Bid

Robinson Challenges Musial, Mays For NL Batting Title

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (AP) — While three of the foremost contenders for major league batting championships were on the sidelines last week, Frank Robinson of Cincinnati did some robust hitting to move into a challenging position in the National League race.

Robinson, the 21-year-old outfielder who won his rookie-of-the-year award in 1956, has collected 11 hits in his last 21 tries. This .524 pace boosted his average to .327 and put him within striking distance of Stan Musial, the leader, and runner-up Willie Mays.

Set To Return
Musial, who has been out of the regular St. Louis line-up with a shoulder injury since Aug. 25, is expected to return to action tomorrow night.

He pinch hit successfully in Sunday's game against Cincinnati and lifted his mark to .341.

Mays had 11 hits in 34 tries at bat for the New York Giants. He dropped a single point to .334.

In the American League, Ted Williams of Boston continued to lead the batters with a .376 average while resting a chest cold. He last played on Sept. 1.

Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees slumped seven points to .369 before he was hospitalized with a leg injury last Friday.

Slugging Roy
While these two were adding nothing to their records, Roy Sievers of Washington maintained his torrid slugging pace. He walloped two home runs and drove in six.

Area Canines Win Laurels At 2 Shows

MT. POCONO—Merlady Kennel's "Timmy" made an auspicious debut into big time dog shows over the weekend, winning two major events and coming out with six points toward a championship.

At the Liberty Bell Cocker Specialty Show Friday, "Timmy" gained its first major victory and three points. At the Westchester Kennel Club Show, Rye, N. Y. Sunday, "Timmy" added a second winner's ribbon and three more points.

"Outsmart"
Another area dog also hit the victory circle at the Liberty Bell Show. It was Sugarbrook Kennel's (Mountainhome) "Sugarbrook Outsmart" who picked up best of winners' laurels and four points toward a championship.

"Outsmart" is just a few points away from a coveted CH. caption.

Session At Saylorsburg

SAYLORSBURG—Blue Mountain Umpires meeting was held at the home of John Wernett. Leonard Renaldi, president of the group presided. Renaldi reported on the year's activity in the Pocono Mountains Baseball League.

It was announced that meetings of the Blue Mountain Umpires will be suspended until the February session when officers will be elected.

Present were Clinton Getz, Wernett, and Sharon Peechacka of Tannersville, and Robert Titus of West End.

At West End
A toss of a coin decided the third game site of the PML playoff between Tannersville and West End.

West End won the toss and the right to play the final game at West End.

Schedule Set For IL Playoffs

MONTREAL, Sept. 9 (AP) — President Frank Shaughnessy of the International League today announced the full schedule for the first-round best-of-7 playoffs and starting assignments for the umpires.

Barring postponements, the first round schedule is:

Series A: Sept. 10 and 11, Miami at Toronto; Sept. 12, travel; Sept. 13 and 14, Toronto at Miami; Sept. 15, Toronto at Miami, if necessary; Sept. 16, Miami at Toronto, if necessary; Sept. 17, Miami at Toronto, if necessary.

Series B: Sept. 10 and 11, Richmond at Buffalo; Sept. 12, travel; Sept. 13 and 14, Buffalo at Richmond; Sept. 15, Buffalo at Richmond, if necessary; Sept. 16, Richmond at Buffalo, if necessary; Sept. 17, Richmond at Buffalo, if necessary.

Riojas Kayos Aussie In 11th

SYDNEY, Australia, Sept. 9 (AP) — Ray Riojas, Fort Worth, Tex., welterweight, tonight knocked out Australia's Colin Clarke in the 11th round of a 12-rounder at Sydney Stadium.

Riojas, 143½, dropped Clarke, 144½, with a short left hook in the 11th. The referee declared Riojas the winner without bothering to count.

Basilio Rough In Workout

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 9 (AP) — Carmen Basilio displayed a savage attack in boxing three rounds today in preparation for Sept. 23 middleweight championship bout with Sugar Ray Robinson.

Alternating his offense between the head and body of heavier Archie Whitfield, the welterweight champion appeared strong as co-managers called a halt to the punching.

Basilio moved here today after training at Alexandria Bay. He is expected to conclude training here Sept. 20.

Neves Rides 3000th Winner

SAN BRUNO, Calif., Sept. 9 (AP) — Jockey Ralph Neves, the Portuguese pepper pot, today rode his 3,000th winning race to become the fifth rider in American turf history to reach that mark.

The 38-year-old Neves passed the milestone by bringing home Cotton Crop in the fifth race at Tanforan, the same track where he started working horses in 1932.

It took two winners on this opening day program to get Neves over the hump. He piloted Rustic Village to victory in the first race, scored a second and a third with his next two mounts, and then came in first going away with Cotton Crop.

In the history of American racing, only Meves, Johnny Longden, Eddie Arcaro, Ted Atkinson and Johnny Adams have ridden 3,000 winners.

SAN BRUNO, Calif., Sept. 9 (AP) — Jockey Ralph Neves, the Portuguese pepper pot, today rode his 3,000th winning race to become the fifth rider in American turf history to reach that mark.

The 38-year-old Neves passed the milestone by bringing home Cotton Crop in the fifth race at Tanforan, the same track where he started working horses in 1932.

Fight Game Seen Losing Sport Angle

DENVER, Sept. 9 (AP) — Abe J. Greene of Patterson, N. J., president of the National Boxing Assn., said today prize-fighting "is in a very precarious state."

Speaking at the opening of the NBA's three-day convention, Greene said certain interests have threatened to turn boxing into a strictly entertainment proposition.

"Never in the history of the NBA has there been a greater need for unity against interests which are plotting against the good name of boxing and its position as a sport," he said.

"There are things afoot in boxing which actually threaten the tenure of commissioners in some states. Boxing is moving now from being a combination of commerce and sport into the exclusive field of entertainment."

Greene referred to what he called the gyrations of middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson in signing for a bout with Carmen Basilio.

Entertainment
"When the contracts were signed," he said, "the match stopped being in the realm of sport. It wasn't return to the world of sports until the winner is named after the fight."

"All that deals with the fight between those two points will be in the way of entertainment."

"The fact that attendance at the fight was boosted by 250,000 with theater television proves there is manipulation behind the scenes."

"If we are not careful, all future matches of importance will be made in the offices of hucksters of Madison Ave. or wherever Madison Ave. is in Detroit, Los Angeles, Denver or Chicago. That is where entertainment is being bought and sold by television sponsors."

Greene mentioned the possibility of local or state taxes on television fights as one means of counteracting what he called the effort to move boxing from the field of sport into the realm of entertainment.

Basilio Rough In Workout

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 9 (AP) — Carmen Basilio displayed a savage attack in boxing three rounds today in preparation for Sept. 23 middleweight championship bout with Sugar Ray Robinson.

Alternating his offense between the head and body of heavier Archie Whitfield, the welterweight champion appeared strong as co-managers called a halt to the punching.

Basilio moved here today after training at Alexandria Bay. He is expected to conclude training here Sept. 20.

Good News For Yanks Mantle Out Of Hospital; No Break In Berra's Thumb

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (AP) — The New York Yankees got some good news today on their two celebrated cripples—Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra.

Mantle was released from Lenox Hill Hospital and X-rays of his leg showed no break.

The mighty Mickey entered the hospital Sept. 6 to rest his injured left leg. He has been suffering from shin splints. That is the separation of tissue from the bone.

Dr. Sidney Gaynor, the club physician, said Mantle was much better and his return to the line-up depended on the outfielder himself and Manager Casey Stengel.

Dr. Gaynor said it all depended on how Mantle felt.

Berra was hurt by a foul tip Saturday in Washington. The thumb still is swollen and badly sprained and Dr. Gaynor said the clutch-hitting catcher might not be available until after the crucial series with the runner-up Chicago White Sox at the Stadium Friday and Saturday.

Bauer Drills
Besides Berra and Mantle, the Yankee hospital list currently includes Hank Bauer and Bill Skowron. Bauer, who already has missed 10 games because of a sprained thumb, took batting practice yesterday and reported he would be ready to play "in a few days." The thumb is still heavily bandaged.

Skowron probably will play tomorrow night or Wednesday afternoon against Cleveland. The big first baseman is a minor casualty compared to the rest of Stengel's wounded. All that ails Skowron is a mild case of blisters on his right hand.

Southpaw Whitey Ford and Bobby Shantz, who had been sidelined with arm injuries for long periods, are both hale and hearty again.

World Series Opens In AL Park

New York Or Chicago Site Of First Game On Oct. 2

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (AP)—The 1957 World Series will open Wednesday, Oct. 2, in the park of the American League pennant winner—most likely New York and possibly Chicago—Commissioner Ford Frick announced today.

The first two games, as usual, will be played in the American League park, the next three in the home park of the National League champions. Games No. 6 and 7, if necessary, will be played in the American League park.

For the first time in 11 years, there is a strong possibility of the World Series combatants taking time off for travel.

In case of an East-West World Series, for instance one between the Yankees and Milwaukee Braves, or one between the White Sox and Brooklyn Dodgers—there will be a day of travel after the second and fifth games. In case of an all-East or all-West series one between St. Louis and Chicago, for instance—there will be no intervening days off.

Last Day Off
The last time the World Series teams enjoyed a day off, other than because of rain, was in 1946 when the Boston Red Sox and St. Louis Cardinals had a day off for travel after the second and fifth games.

Games will start at 1 p.m. local time as in the past. The games will be nationally televised by NBC under the five-year, $16,200,000 contract signed last January.

Prices will be the same as last year—$10 for box seats, $7 reserved, $4 standing room and $2 bleachers. The prices include federal tax but not state and city tax. New York State and city tax total 10 per cent of the ticket price. The state of Wisconsin has no state or city tax.

"We discussed the possibility of raising prices," said Frick, "but decided against it."

All box and reserve seats will be sold in strips of three (National or four (American). Standing room and bleacher tickets will be sold for single games.

The Provisions
Provisions also were made in case either of the pennant races ends in a tie. Should the American League race end in a tie, the first game will be a one-game playoff on Monday, Sept. 30, with the Series opening on the scheduled date, Oct. 2. Should the National League race end in a tie, there will be a best-of-3 game playoff, starting Monday.

"In that case," said Frick, "the start of the World Series will have to be postponed to either Thursday, Oct. 3 or Friday, Oct. 4. It all depends on which team wins the American League pennant."

Five teams were represented at the meeting, which took place in the commissioner's office. They were the Yankees, White Sox, Cardinals, Braves and Dodgers.

Demands Ban Of Red China In Olympics

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP)—Sen. Butler (R-Md.) demanded today that the State Department bar Red China athletes from the 1960 Winter Olympics in California.

In a letter to Secretary of State Dulles, Butler said correspondence between himself and the State Department last year confirmed his own opinion the Communists use sports contests to advance their "propaganda purposes."

He told Dulles nothing could be gained "by altering our thoroughly realistic policy with respect to the admission of Red China's so-called athletes."

Taken Issue
Butler also took issue with Dulles' recent lifting of a long-standing ban against American newsmen entering Red China. Dulles agreed to issue visas to representatives of 25 U. S. news gathering organizations. Red China later reneged on its original invitation to American reporters to visit there and said the 26 could not enter unless Red Chinese reporters were admitted to the United States on an equal basis.

"I need not remind you that the original invitation to American newsmen was a cleverly calculated propaganda maneuver which has rebounded to the discredit of this nation," Butler wrote Dulles. "It is my firm conviction that the Squaw Valley, Calif. competition will be exploited in the same manner unless the State Department refuses to be pressured and remains adamant on this very vital matter."

Butler said permitting the athletes to enter this country would clash with the U.S. policy of non-recognition of Red China.

Ramblers Sign All-Loop Goalie

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9 (AP)—The Philadelphia Ramblers of the Eastern Hockey League, today signed all-league goalie Ivan Walsley for the 1957-58 season.

Walsley, who missed nine games last season because of a back injury, will be playing his third season for the Ramblers.

Last season Walsley also was selected most valuable player in the league.

Needles Retired By Owners

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (AP)—Needles, a horse who had notations of his own in the 1956 Kentucky Derby with a thrilling come-from-behind rush, was suddenly retired today at Belmont Park.

Hugh Fontaine, the trainer who flew a Spad in France in World War I, said no decision had been made whether Needles would go to Florida or Kentucky to enter the stud. The colt has raced only three times this year because of an injury.

Needles, a bay son of Ponder-Noodle Soup, was bred in Florida, and was the first horse from that state to win the Derby.

Owned by two young oilmen, Jack Dudley and Bonnie Heath, Needles came from a celebrated line of Derby winners in this country and in England. His daddy, Ponder, won the 1949 Kentucky Derby, and his granddaddy, Pensive, won it in 1944. Pensive was a son of Hyperion, the 1933 Epsom Derby winner, while the latter in turn was by Gainsborough, who took the Epsom classic in 1918.

Needles was the top money-winning horse of 1956, with earnings of $440,850, and he retires with a total bankroll of $600,335. He was the 2-year-old champion of 1955, and in 1956 was voted the top 3-year-old after winning the Florida Stakes at Hialeah, the Florida Derby at Gulfstream Park, the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs, and the Belmont Stakes in New York.

Allentown Fair Shows Improvements

FRANK F. Hausman, president of the 7,000-member Lehigh Valley Club in Allentown, became the 14th president of the Lehigh County Agricultural Society in the organization's 105-year history when he took office in January of this year. In the eight months since he took office, the society, which sponsored its first Allentown Fair in 1852 and has continued to present the Fair every year since then (with three notable exceptions), has accomplished these things:

1. Elected its first general manager (Ed Leidig).
2. Cleared dead and rotting trees from the grove in the eastern end of the 48-acre Fair Grounds property and converted it into productive industrial exposition area.

Three Months

3. Conceived and constructed (in a little more than three months from blueprint stage) the first new structure on the Fair Grounds in 40 years with the building of the new Agriculture Hall, 140 feet by 200 feet, in the western end of the grounds at a cost of about $250,000.
4. Brought new grandstand attractions (Willard Alexander presenting Lou Walters Latin Quarter Revue at night and vaudeville acts plus a rock-and-roll show during the afternoons) and a new Midway organization to Allentown for the 1957 Fair running from Sept. 15 through 21.

5. Utilized more of the directors and stockholders of the society as committee members to participate in the planning for the Fair.

Hausman has included the two living presidents of the Fair, Ed Scholl and Howard Singmaster, as presidents emeriti of the advisory board. The Fair's first president was Edward Kohler. Other presidents who followed him were Hiram J. Schantz, George Beisel, Owen L. Schreiber, Solomon Griesemer, Owen L. Schreiber (who returned to office after a two-year lapse), Jeremiah Roth, John W. Eckert, Victor H. Wicand, A. H. Balliet, Scholl in 1926 through 1956.

Most Pennsylvania Corporate Taxpayers Face Lighter Task In Filing 1957 Returns

MOST Pennsylvania corporate taxpayers will have 50 per cent less forms to prepare in filing their 1957 returns under the Department of Revenue's new program of reporting, Deputy Secretary of Revenue Charles S. Seligman announced today.

"No longer will corporations be burdened with needless duplication in the preparation of their principal tax reports," Seligman declared. "All of the necessary information previously required in various colored reports will now be embodied in the new combined reports, and appropriate preparation instructions will be issued separately to each corporate taxpayer by the Department."

The 1957 Legislature, at the request of Governor Leader, amended the Fiscal Code of 1929 by providing for a uniform April 15, 1958 filing date for all calendar year 1957 corporate tax reports. A corresponding 105-day filing period was also provided for fiscal ### year corporations.

A uniform April 30 filing date still applies for all calendar year tentative capital stock, franchise and corporate net income tax reports, with a corresponding period for fiscal year corporations.

"Because of this progressive legislation, substantial savings in printing, paper, mailing and handling costs will be effected," Seligman said. "We are now combining all domestic capital stock and franchise tax reports with corresponding corporate net income tax reports."

Vari-colored reports heretofore sent to such businesses as distillers, telephone and telegraph, coal mining, oil and gas, real estate companies, etc., are eliminated under the new report system.

Pennsylvania corporate taxpayers will now receive one 1957 report form covering either the franchise or capital stock tax, combined in each case with the corporate net income tax. These tax reports will be filed on one of two tax forms provided for either foreign or domestic corporations. Tentative capital stock or franchise and corporate net income tax reports will likewise now be combined into one form.

"All of this adds up to the end of numerous processing elements, including special addressograph runs by business classifications, a reduction in clerical work and filing space requirements. This change should accelerate both tax settlements and mail receipts processing," Deputy Seligman added.

The Department plans to have 1957 calendar reports mailed to corporate taxpayers in January 1958 for the April 15 and April 30 filing dates. The new report forms are now being prepared in collaboration with representatives of business groups, corporate taxpayers, attorneys and accountants.

Minister Accepts Call To Churches

REV. WESLEY Crowther has accepted a call to the Middle Smithfield and Shawnee Presbyterian churches in Monroe County, after serving almost two years as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Slatersburg.

The surprise announcement was made at a meeting of the Slatersburg congregation Sunday morning. The resignation was accepted.

The congregation will join Rev. Crowther in requesting the Lehigh Presbytery to dissolve the Pastoral Relationship.

The Slatersburg church will seek a successor. Rev. Crowther said it may take weeks or months to find one.

The resignation is to be effective Sept. 30. Rev. Crowther will begin his new pastoral duties the next day.

He will succeed the Rev. David Newquist as minister to the Middle Smithfield-Shawnee parish. Rev. Newquist left the pastorate last February. Roger Ruhmann, a student at the Princeton Seminary, assistant pastor, has been directing services during the interim.

Rev. Crowther took over the Slatersburg ministry in October 1955.

There are 100 members in the Slatersburg Congregation and 150 each in the Monroe Churches.

Rev. Crowther has previously been pastor of Fort Carbon Church in Schuylkill County for one and one-half years.

He was graduated from King's College, Delaware, and Temple University School of Theology. He did special graduate work at the University of Delaware at Newark, Del.

A native of Philadelphia, he is married to the former Beatrice Bean. The couple has two children, Janet Lee and Barbara Jean. They will reside in Shawnee.
